

Mon Apr 28 2014 Posted by Murray Whyte, Visual arts at 03:01 PM

Have You Seen This Man: Nadia Belerique at Daniel Faria

As if you don't already know (see: the last 2 posts) Contact's here. Here at Untitled, we'll try to do a little judicious editing of the hundred-plus photo shows all over town, and do our best to steer you right. To wit: Have You Seen This Man, a show from Nadia Belerique at the Daniel Faria Gallery. To call it a photo show is to be half-right -- yes, Belerique uses photography, but to oblique, poetic and -- as the title might suggest -- nefarious purposes. A white rug lies in the middle of the room, tracked with footprints left by using Liquid Light, which changes colour when it reacts with the sun. On it perch steel figures; around them, light experiments freighted with dark mystery. It's less a photo show than a vibe, and a good one -- if unstable, impending doom is your thing, that is. Until June 7.